

The WEEK'S DOINGS

Friends of Jim Burlington, the former Alliance traveling man who traveled out of this city for Morris & Company, learned with pleasure this week of the fact that he received a commission at Fort Riley, where he attended the officers' training camp. His commission is in the quartermaster's department and he is to report back to Camp Funston at Fort Riley September 1. He has been at his home at 250 Illinois avenue, St. Joseph, Mo., since taking his course and receiving his commission.

W. B. Barnett, proprietor of the Golden Rule store, has returned from an eastern buying trip of a month, during which time he and Mrs. Barnett visited a number of eastern cities, including St. Louis, Cleveland, Chicago and New York city. While in New York city on August 7, 8, 9 and 10, Mr. Barnett had the discomfort of experiencing the four hottest days ever recorded in that city. City records kept for fifty-seven years failed to disclose days as hot as those four. Mrs. Barnett stopped over for a visit in Indiana and is expected home shortly. Mr. Barnett purchased a large and varied stock of fall and winter goods while on the trip.

Capt. Vincent Taylor left Sunday night for Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thomas have gone to housekeeping in the residence at 604 Nebraska avenue.

Passenger Director A. P. Curtis at the big Burlington depot is asked a hundred questions a day, but he never loses his smiling demeanor and always has a ready answer. The heavy traffic on the Burlington during recent months has frequently been the cause of late trains, in fact, so frequently that traveling men have frequently facetiously remarked that they could get a night's sleep between the time a train was due and its arrival. One of them asked Director Curtis the first of the week the cause of the late trains. His answer was something like this: "The wind is high, the steam is low; trains are heavy, and hard to tow; coal is poor and full of slate; and that's what makes these d—n trains so late."

General Superintendent E. E. Young of the Burlington is the purchaser of a new Jackson Eight auto from the Rumer Motor Company, distributors. His friends have been asking him whether he and Cy Laing are ready to take another fishing trip in Wyoming. Cy was rather surprised, according to his account, at the antics of the auto in which they took the trip about a month ago. The auto, which was being driven by Mr. Young, seemed to not pull as much as it should, when starting from a town on the trip. After running three or four miles they stopped and after much investigation, discovered that the emergency brake was on strong. They released the brake and started out again but after an hour or two the motor seemed to heat up frightfully. Cy insisted that they should find some water for the radiator but Mr. Young insisted that the car had plenty of water as it had been filled on leaving the town. Finally a cylinder stuck and they got out to investigate, finding that the radiator port cock had become lost somewhere in the rear, and the water had all drained out of the cooling system—the car was as dry as a bone. And this all happened in Wyoming, too.

Woodruff Ball, well-known western Nebraska booster and Valentine business man, spent Saturday in the city on business. Fred gives the credit to his recent vacation trip in western and central Wyoming, where he spent six weeks recuperating. He met many old friends in the Jackson Hole district and after the first three weeks he enjoyed himself immensely, finding plenty of excellent mountain scenery.

Ralph Henderson of the Burlington has been promoted to deadwood as chief car inspector. H. D. Hacker of Deadwood, formerly of Alliance, came back to assume the place vacated by P. E. Romig, as day chief.

J. A. Armour, vice president of the Griffith Oil Company, arrived this noon from Deadwood where he attended a meeting of the board of directors of the company. They were advised from Casper that the drill and drilling material had arrived and were being moved onto the ground this week. This means that operations will start right away. The company also took over interests in the Big Muddy field, close to one of the largest producing wells in the field. Conditions look very good for the company.

Will came in Saturday, and will return to Lincoln Friday night. He is one of the live wires in Nebraska's state house and his rapid rise since going to Lincoln has been well deserved.

Dr. Joe Jeffry, who is attending the national chiropractic convention and clinic at Davenport, seems to be cutting "quite some ice," in the city on the Mississippi these days. The Davenport Democrat of Monday evening in reporting the Monday session of the convention says: "Dr. Joseph Jeffry of Alliance, Nebraska, the Harry Lauder of Chiropractic, told a number of good stories with a decided Scotch burr, and paid a fine tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Palmer whom he said were to him as father and mother in the profession. 'I'm a failure financially,' he said, 'for I haven't made a million dollars yet, but I'm making a fortune in friends and that's better than the millions Wallingford made in ten minutes.' In another place in the same issue under the head of 'P. S. C. Notes,' the P. S. C. standing for Palmer School of Chiropractic, appears the following pertaining to Dr. Jeffry: 'This is the way Dr. Joe Jeffry of Alliance, Nebr., put it in his automobile in which he made the entire trip from his home city to Davenport: 'From Alliance, Nebr., to Davenport, Ia., 975 miles 2 C. B. and J.'"

Secretary F. W. Hicks, of the local anti-union board, desires to again call attention to the clerk-carrier examinations to be held in Alliance on Saturday, September 8. The examinations afford those who can pass them an opportunity to secure employment in the Alliance postoffice as either a clerk or carrier. The

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Kenner and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Thomas spent Sunday at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Beaumont at Girard, north of Hemingford. Mrs. Beaumont is known as one of the best cooks of fried chicken in Box Butte county and she excelled all previous records this time. A trip up the Nebraska valley in the morning lasted until late in the afternoon because of the fact that a Crow-Elkhart is no better than any other car when it comes to traversing irrigated alfalfa fields.—The Crow found a nice, soft, well-irrigated spot in an alfalfa field and stayed there three hours before she could be persuaded to leave, with the aid of planks and chains and ropes.

Ray Butler, clerk at the Lowry shoe store on unpaved Box Butte avenue, is this week enjoying a visit at Lincoln.

Si Miller of the Alliance Shoe Store returned the first of the week from a buying trip including Chicago, Ill., and Detroit, Mich. Miller stated that one of the peculiar things he noticed on his trip east was the fact that the women in the larger cities did not seem to wear as good shoes as the women of Nebraska. He states that in the east cloth-topped shoes seem to be the thing, but here in this part of the country the women seem to demand kid tops.

D., to assume her duties as instructor of music in the schools at that place. Miss Layton will, in addition to her musical work, have two or three classes in the high school. Hawkins, raised 500 bushels of potatoes on four acres this year and who will realize almost $1,000 from the sale of the spuds, on Tuesday exhibited a potato dug this week from their tract south of the round house that weighs two pounds and one ounce. It is an exceptionally large spud, being one of two dug from the same hill, the other one being about half that size. The hill produced over three pounds of spuds. The large potato in question seemed to be one large spud with some ten or eleven small knobs on it.

C. L. Jensen of Hot Springs, S. D., who owns the telephone plants at Hot Springs, Oelrichs and Armore, S. D., was in Alliance Tuesday for the purpose of making some purchases of telephone equipment. year.
